■ Peer/Recovery Support Specialist of the Year Award

The Peer/Recovery Support Specialist uses their lived experiences and skills learned in training to help others achieve and maintain stability and recovery from substance use disorders or mental illness.

- Nominations for this award category may be peers supporting: Families, Parents, or Caregivers
- Mental Health and Substance Use Disorder recovery initiatives
- FIT, CAT, FACT teams
- Hospital, Emergency Department, or Jail Diversion program

By sharing their own lived experience and practical guidance, peer workers help people to develop their own goals, create strategies for self-empowerment, and take concrete steps towards building fulfilling, self-determined lives for themselves.

Peer support encompasses a range of activities and interactions between people who have shared similar experiences of being diagnosed with mental health or substance use disorder conditions. This mutuality between a peer worker and person using services promotes connection and inspires hope. Peer support offers a level of acceptance, understanding, and validation.

Eligibility

- Employed through a FBHA member organization for at least 2 years
- Holds a minimum of a high-school diploma, general equivalency degree or higher
- Actively working as a Peer/Recovery Support Specialist

■ Supervisor/Administrator of the Year Award

Behavioral health services rely on the serious contributions of a range of professionals who work to create healthier individuals, families, and communities through prevention, intervention, quality treatment, and recovery support.

This award category recognizes experienced individuals providing oversight and direction to the provision of direct services and may or may not see clients themselves. Whether it's through the development and dissemination of training and competencies or supervising the deployment of services across a variety of public health and health care delivery settings, these professionals are integral to the delivery of high-quality behavioral health services.

These professionals may perform a variety of roles such as: program director, clinical director/supervisor, supervise case management and develop leadership teams, conduct research, provide assessments or exams, streamline processes, or lead quality initiatives. Areas of expertise may be in clinical programming, quality initiatives, criminal justice programs, employee assistance, reimbursement and finance, education, quality control and process improvement processes, and community outreach.

Eligibility

- May or may not see clients
- Employed through a FBHA member organization for at least 2 years

■ Behavioral Health Pandemic Hero

A hero is a person who is admired or idealized for courage, outstanding achievements, or noble qualities. During the COVID – 19 public health emergency, medical professionals in hospitals and nursing homes have been in the spotlight as the heroes providing care to those afflicted by the virus. However, there is another set of frontline pandemic heroes not featured in the media, the army of behavioral healthcare workers who continued to provide services to those in need of mental health or substance use disorder care. Often putting themselves at-risk, these individuals assured acute care services were delivered, residential programs stayed viable, medications were provided, and outpatient care went virtual to ensure those in need received supports and services.

This year a special award category has been established to honor the heroes who worked tirelessly to make sure mental health and substance use disorder services were available to those in need. FBHA members are invited to nominate individuals who provided extraordinary service during the pandemic, whether counseling, peer support, tele-behavioral health, IT support, medical care, custodial care or any other service that reached beyond the boundaries of traditional care or position responsibilities.

Eligibility

- Employed with a FBHA member organization
- Demonstrated courage or extraordinary services to address the challenges of the pandemic
- Aware of the nomination and willing to accept the award
